PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

Inasmuch as a new edition of the Vocabulary of English Rhymes has become necessary in spite of the fact that during much of the time since its publication comparatively little effort has been made to bring the work into general notice, it is proper to make a brief statement, such as the author would gladly have made before, in regard to the origin of the book.

The late Leonard Case, Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio, Founder of the Case School of Applied Science, and a poet whose gift won wide recognition in his anonymously published "Treasure Trove," undertook to make for his friend, Dr. Alleyne Maynard of Cleveland, a rhyming dictionary "arranged without regard to spelling, but according to the vowel sounds in the accented syllables of the rhymes." The result of Mr. Case's labor was embodied in a beautiful manuscript volume containing perhaps half of the words in this present Vocabulary. He found difficulties in the details of arrangement, however, which he could not settle to his satisfaction, so he proposed to his college friend, Samuel Weed Barnum, that he should undertake to work out the idea. Mr. Barnum devoted two years and a half to the work, Mr. Case paying him generously for his time, defraying all the expenses of publication, presenting the author with the books, plates, and copyright, but characteristically insisting that his own connection with the matter should be carefully concealed. This wish was scrupulously respected while Mr. Case lived, but now it is right to take this opportunity not only to acknowledge his share in the conception and execution of this work, but also to make grateful mention of one of those generous acts with which he quietly filled his life.

In this edition the few typographical errors which have been discovered have been corrected, but no attempt has been made to add the small number of words available for rhyming which have come into our language since the book was first published. It has been thought best on the whole to have more ample margins than before and a different binding. The unique binding and small page of the former edition were desired by Mr. Case in order to make as compact a volume as possible for pocket use.

The test of experience during these years on the part of those best qualified to judge has seemed to prove true the claim made in the former preface, that this Rhyming Vocabulary is far better for its purpose than any other known work.

In 1775 Walker's "Rhyming Dictionary" was published, and in 1791 his "Critical Pronouncing Dictionary and Expositor of the English Language" appeared. For about half a century the latter was a leading authority in its department wherever the English language was spoken; but it was long ago superseded both in the United States and in Great Britain. The "Rhyming Dictionary," however, of which the author's last revised edition was published in 1804, has now been for a century the only extended and well-known work of its sort in our language. Originally published with definitions, it has also been abridged and published without them. Yet one may easily show that the attempt to use this dictionary for rhyming purposes must often be an utter failure. It says of itself: "As in other dictionaries words follow each other in an alphabetical order, according to the letters they begin with, in this they follow each other according to the letters they end with." This principle of arranging the words solely according to their orthography makes it necessary to separate those which rhyme with one another, but are not spelled in the rhyming part with the same letters; and again, to insert together words which end with the same letter or letters, but have little or no likeness in sound and no rhyming affinity. Thus "a," which stands at the very beginning, rhymes with "play," "obey," "prey," and other words scattered through the last fourth of the work, while "neigh" and words of like orthography are near the end of the first third; and so "die" is in the first fourth, but it rhymes with "eye" and "nigh" in different parts of the second fourth, and with "try" and "buy" near the end. Again, the first three words are "a," "baa," and "abba"; the last three are "mizzy," "whiz," and "buzz;" while almost every opening of the book will disclose words placed together, which have no closer relationship for rhyming than "be" and "babe," or "valour" and "flour." One who knows just what he wants may find it in Walker's "Rhyming Dictionary"; but the unfortunate and weary versifier, who is at a loss for a word to rhyme with what he has, may find his own word (as "potato" or "fulgency") without another in the book to match it, or the desired word may have half the book between it and the word with which he starts, as in the case of "spite" and "right." It may be added, that, if Walker's "Critical Pronouncing Dictionary and Expositor" is too meager and antiquated for the present day, the same is true of his "Rhyming Dictionary," which contains less than 30,000 words, hundreds and even thousands of them without any rhyming companion, and many others entirely obsolete, while other multitudes of words in good use can not be found in it at all.

But on what principles should a new work in this department be constructed? Should it have definitions, like Walker's own work? No: these would make it much more bulky and expensive, without any corresponding addition to its real value, so long as other excellent dictionaries are or may be at hand. Should the words be arranged according to their rhyming adaptations or sounds? Certainly; but how? The intricacies and differences in both orthography and pronunciation must be encountered and somehow systematically settled or exhibited or ignored; authorities, often clashing with one another and sometimes inconsistent with themselves, must be consulted, compared, and allowed their due weight; words must be obtained and disposed of, by varied research, examination, introduction, rejection, insertion with others, reference from others, &c.; and the work as a completed whole must be characterized by simplicity, uniformity, compactness, and practical utility. Such, in brief, have been the processes and the aim; the book itself as published brings before others the results. The degree of skill shown in the execution of its plan, and its value as exhibiting the analogies and structural forms of our language or as guiding through mazes of orthography and pronunciation, will, no doubt, be variously estimated: but it has certainly more than doubled—and, in effect, by its references, perhaps quadrupled—its venerable predecessor's number of words, discriminated the whole according to their adaptations for rhyming, and arranged them in groups where they can be readily found when they are wanted; while it has, to a great extent, omitted obsolete and rhymeless words, and added multitudes that are new and important, it has not intentionally rejected any that promise usefulness now; so that this Rhyming Vocabulary is confidently claimed to be far better for the particular purpose intended than any other known work. It will aid poets and versifiers, it is hoped, to do their work better and more easily; and thus it will assist in the cultivation of good taste and feeling, the improvement of literature, the promotion of human welfare, and the glory of Him who is Lord of all.

KEY TO THE SOUNDS.

In arranging words by their sounds, it seems best to regard one particular letter or character or combination of letters as standing for each particular sound; to select the characters, as far as needed, from Webster's Dictionary (quarto editions of 1864 and afterward); and to make the notation and arrangement as clear and simple as possible. The following Key shows the letters and characters used in the arrangement and their order. The letters here italicized in any one sentence are equivalents in sound, silent letters which are combined with the proper equivalents being italicized with them in order to represent more clearly to the eye the pronunciation and the general principle of arrangement by sound which is the characteristic of this Vocabulary.

ā [including ē], as in mate, apparatus (?), main, straight, gaol, may, played, re, rein, eight, prey, preyed, break, gauge, dengue; French fête, chargé, élève, crochet. āy, as in sommeil (?), Isa'ah (see y). In verbs ending in "ate" the ā is usually very distinct, but in nouns and adjectives in "ate" the ā is often obscure, even taking the sound of ě or ĩ.

ǣ, as in fat, bade, plaid; regularly in verbal, Christian, &c., colloquially pronounced with ŭ.

â [including ê], as in fare, fair, Ayr, prayer, where, their (?), eyre, bear, e'er, connoisseur (?). The dictionaries generally represent this â to be ā modified by the following r; and this may be regarded as the standard pronunciation in parent (?), e'er, connoisseur, and a few other words (see ār, p. 11]; but most words marked with â and its equivalents in our dictionaries are pronounced in America, as well as by many in England, with the sound of ă prolonged and modified by the following r.

â, as in far, apparatus (?), haunt, heart, guard, calf, balm; regularly in vulgar, monarchy, &c., which are colloquially pronounced with û. For the French octroi, &c., see remark under w.

â, as in staff, fast, pass, asp. In this class of words the pronunciation varies from â to ă; hence rhymes of them with one or both of these extremes are sometimes allowable (see âth, p. 39; compare ô in long, &c., p. x). For octroi, &c., see the French oi or oy under w.

â [including ô], as in fall, talk, war, oft (?), nor, George, pause, ought, jaw, awe, broad, bought; regularly in error, vigor, labor, &c., which are usually pronounced with û. For devoir, &c., see under w.

For pea, Cæsar, quay, see ē; for any, said, says, head, Dædalus, see ě; for Hawaiï, aisle, bayou, see i; for marriage, chamberlain, beaufin (?), see ĩ; for aune, hautboy, beau, boat, see ō; for what, see ö; for miaul, sauer-kraut, see ou; for beauty, meaw, see û.

b, as in babe, ebb, cupboard. For bdellium, see d; for dumb, see m; for doubt, see t.

c hard [including œ and ch] is equivalent to k, which see: c soft or ç is equivalent to s, which see.—ch, as in much, niche, match; German Deutsch; Italian cantatrice, Vespucci; and colloquially in Christian, Christianity or Christianity, question, righteous, mixture, natural, &c. (see t, û, y).—For cuirass, cap, kick, sceptic, school, anchor, see k; for lacs, blacks, aches, stomachs, see ks under k; for faction, see ksh under k; for drachm, see m; for ceaseless, abscission, schism, see s; for ocean, acacia or acacia, cretaceous, oceanic, gracious, special, con- science, prescience or prescience, chaise, schottische, see sh under s; for victual, yacht, ctenoid, see t; for sacrifice, discern, czar, see z.

d, as in dread, loved, bdellium, add, suggest (?), mezzo(?). “Educate,” “verdure,” &c., are regularly pronounced ěd’yū-kāt, vŭrd’yūr (?; see ŭ), &c.; but colloquially the d and y unite in the sound of j. See g, j, ŭ, y, z. For judgment, edge, soldier, adjure, see j; for handkerchief, see k; for Wednesday, see n.

ē [including ī], as in we, oases (?), pea, free, seine, people, key, Cæsar, machine, chief, Cræsus, quay (?), vis-a-vis, turquois (?).

ĕ, as in bed, any, said, says, head, Dædalus, heifer, leopard, friend, asafetida, bury, guess, guerdon (?).

For played, re, rein, eight, prey, preyed, break, dengue, fête, élève, crochet, see ā; for prayer, where, their (?), eyre, bear, e’er (?), connoisseur (?), see â; for heart, see ä; for awe, see a; for gneiss, height, pie, ley(?) or lye, rye, eye, see ī; for beaufin (?), forfeit, foreign, Burleigh, alley, English, been, sieve, see ĭ; for beau, yeoman, sew, hoe, owe, see ō; for Deutsch, see oi; for shoe, manoeuvre, see oo; for beauty, meaw, feodal, feud, new, yew, adieu, view, due, hewed, viewed, rue, Europe, &c., see ū; for does, see ŭ; for her, offer, guerdon (?), see ŭ.

f, as in fed, stiff, laugh, philosophy, Sapphic. For of, see v.

g hard or ġ, as in gag, league, ghost, gig, egg, sing (see under n).—gz [= ġz, or ġs, or x], as in legs, eggs, exist.—“Suggest” (and so its derivatives) is pronounced sŭd-jĕst’ [or sŭj-ĕst’] or sŭg-jĕst’.—For laugh, see f; for dungeon, judgment, edge, exaggerate, gaol, gem, giant, Egypt, see j; for hough, see k; for phlegm, see m; for gnat, see n; for anger, linger, &c., see remark under n; for though, see ō; for hiccough, see p; for Gironde, rouge, see zh under z.

h, as in hart, who, when [= hwěn].—For much, niche, match, Deutsch, see ch; for laugh, philosophy, Sapphic, see f; for ghost, see g; for hough, anchor, khan, school, see k; for diphthong (?), see p; for rhubarb, catarrh, see r; for schism, see s; for shun, chaise, schorl, see sh under s; for thyme, phthisic, see t; for thin, breath, withe, Matthew, phthisis, see th under t; for this, with, breathe, see th under t. See z.

ī [including ȳ], as in pine, idle, choir, aisle, gneiss, Hawaiï, bayou, height, pie, guile, dry, rye, ley (?) or lye, eye, buy, fight, indict.

ĭ [including ŷ and shortened ē], as in pin, divination, elevation, English, been, niche, marriage, parliament, chamberlain, forfeit, foreign, Burleigh, alley, sevensnight (?), sieve, women, busy, build, nymph, plaguy, tortoise (?), beaufin (?), chamois (?).

For main, straight, rein, eight, see ā; for plaid, see ǎ; for fair, their (?), see â; for seine, machine, chief, turquoise (?), see ē; for said, heifer, friend, see ě; for Indian (?), soldier, see j; for oil, see oi; for adieu, view, viewed, juice, fruit (?), puisne, see ū; for sir, elixir, see û; for familiar, convenient, see y; for vision, see zh under z.

j [including g soft or ġ], as in jet, gaol, gem, judgment, plunge, giant, Egypt, edge, exaggerate, soldier, adjure; and colloquially in educate (see ū), verdure, grandeur, Indian (?). For hallelujah, see y; for jalousie, see zh under z.

k [including c hard or -e, -eh, and q], as in kick, wacke (?), leak, khan, bank, handkerchief, cap, sceptic, cuirass, hough, anchor, school, liquor, antique, quest, acquit, sacque (see w). For know, see n; for nk, as in bank, &c., see under n.—ks, as in lacs, blacks, folks, stomachs, aches, rakes, antiques, sacques, ver.—ksh, as faction, factious, luxury (see ū), complexion, noxious, hiccius doctius or hiccius doctius.

l, as in let, fall, metal(?), victual, double, shovel, devil, evil, shoveler, *shovel*ing, seraglio, kiln, muscle, epistle, twelvemonth(?).—ly (both consonants), as in million, seraglio, sommeil(?), surveillance (?; see y).

m, as in madam, small, lamm, damp, drachm, dumb, phlegm, hymn. For accompt, &c., see under ou; for comptroller, see under n.

n, as in noon, inn, mnemonics, gnat, know, raven, even, heaven, often, ravin, reckon, Wednesday.—For kiln, see l; for hymn, see m. “Comptroller” is pronounced like “controller” [kõn-trõ’lûr, or colloquially kûn-trõ’lûr].—The Spanish ñ = ny, as in cañon.—n (or ñ), in the digraph nk and its equivalents, nearly approaches ng in sing, but is less prolonged, as in bank, uncle, anchor, conquer, anxious.—“Anger,” “anguish,” “linger,” “youngest,” “congregation,” &c., are pronounced äng’gûr, äng’-gwîsh, lîng’gûr, yûng’gëst, kõng-grî-gā’shûn, &c.

õ, as go, roll, oh, folks, aune, hautboy, beau, yeoman, sew, boat, hoe, door, court, though, grow, owe, Boötes [= bõ-õ’tëz], Laocoön [= lä-õk’õ-õn].

ö [including ä], as in not, what, hough, knowledge, Laocoön; regularly in bishop, pistol, atom, and the like, which are colloquially pronounced with ũ.—ö, before ng, ss, st, and th, as in long, cross, cost, broth, &c., also in off, scoff, cough, trough, God(?), gone, forehead, and some others, has a sound intermediate between ö in “not” and ô [= ä] in “nor” (compare ä), and is then marked <sup>1</sup> in the Vocabulary (see pp. 121, 499, &c.).

For gaol, see ā; for nor, broad, oft(?), George, bought, see ā; for people, Cræsus, see ē; for leopard, asafætida, see ě; for women, see ĭ; for feodal, see ū; for son, does(?), luncheon, see ũ; for worm, see û; for wolf, see ȳ; for choir, “one,” see w; for “iron,” “apron,” see under r; for oi, oo, ou, and their equivalents, see the following.

oi [including oy], as in oil, boy, buoy or buoy (?; see under w), Deutsch. For turquoise (?), see ē; for choir, see w & ĭ; for tortoise(?), see ĭ; for porpoise, see ũ; for avoirduois, see û; for devoir, &c., see under w.

oo [including ōō and o and u; see ū], as in moon, move, buoy(?), manœuvre, croup, rendezvous or rendezvous (see z), bijoux, shoe. See ū, w. For door, Boötes, Laocoön, see ō; for Laocoön, see ö; for blood, see ũ; for foot, see ȳ.

ou [including ow], as in bound, vow, miaul; German sauer-kraut.—“Accompt” is pronounced like “account”; “accomptant” like “accountant.”—For bought, see ā; for court, though, see ō; for hough, see ö; for croup, see oo; for youth(?), see ū; for double, generous, see ũ; for adjourn, see û; for should, see ȳ; for zouave(?), see w.

p, as in prop, Lapp, upper, diphthong(?), hic-cough(?). For philosophy, Sapphic, see f; for corps, see r; for psalm, raspberry(?), see s; for ptarmigan, phthisic, see t; for phthisis, see th under t; for Stephen, see v; for raspberry(?), see z.

q is not used; see k. See also under n, w.

r, as in rear, err, nor, roaring, warring, rhubarb, catarrh, wring, mortgage, corps.—“Iron” with its derivatives is pronounced ī’ûrn; “apron” with its derivatives is usually pronounced ā’pûrn.

s [including c soft or ç], as in see, ceaseless, osse-

ous(?), Christmas, answer, abscission, schism, chintz, raspberry(?); French façade; Italian mezzo(?; see z). For Deutsch, see ch; for lacs, blacks, folks, rakes, stomachs, aches, antiques, see ks under k; for legs, eggs, see gz under g; for has, scissors, see z; for ambrosia or ambrosia, confusion, vision, osier, abscission, pleasure, elysian or elysian, see zh under z. —sh [including the French ch and German sch], as in shun, ocean, nauseous, oceanic, cretaceous, osseous(?), acacia or acacia, nauseate or nauseate, Dacian, gracious, special, Galatian or Galatian, conscience, prescience or prescience, nation, addition, vitiate or vitiate, cautious, Colossian or Colossian, dissension, mission, dissensious, censure, sugar, fi-sure, chaise, schottisch or schottische. For ksh, see under k.

t, as in tent, butt, thyme, ctenoid, ptarmigan, phthisic, yacht, victual, doubt, two, kicked, dwarfed, chapped, chased, laughed, relaxed, mezzo (?; see z). For match, Deutsch, see ch; for faction, &c., see ksh under k; for mortgage, see r; for nation, Galatian or Galatian, addition, vitiate or vitiate, cautious, see sh under s; for transition, see zh under z. “Christian,” “Christianity,” “question,” “righteous,” “mixture,” “natural,” &c., are regularly pronounced as if written krīst’yǎn, krīst-yǎn’ī-tī or krīst-yī-ǎn’-ī-tī, kwěst’yŭn, rīt’yŭs, mīkst’yŭr, năt’yŭ-răl, &c.; but are colloquially and commonly pronounced krīs’chǎn or krīs’chŭn, krīs-chǎn’ī-tī or krīs-chī-ǎn’ī-tī, kwěs’chŭn, rī’chŭs, mīks’chŭr or mīks’chûr (see ŭ), năch’ŭr-ăl or năch’ŭr-ăl, &c. — th sharp, as in thin, breath, withe, Matthew, phthisis; th vocal, or th̄, as in this, breathe, with.

ŭ [a diphthongal sound, made up of ī and oo, or ī and u], as in cube, mute, buhl, fuchsia (?), puisne, beauty, meaw, feudal, feud, new, adieu, view, due, hewed, viewed, juice; also in yew(?), youth(?), yule(?), rude(?), rue(?), fruit(?), through(?). In the last seven and their cognates most orthoëpists omit the initial ĭ sound, retaining only the oo part of the ū; but Dr. Webster himself (more correctly, as the author of this Vocabulary and many others think) pronounced them all with ū. In accordance with this latter view, brew, due, new, rue, view, yew, are arranged together under ū; but do, coo, two, are placed together under oo; brewed, feud, rude, viewed, are grouped under ūd; while brood, food, rood, have their place under ood, &c. Those, however, who regard “do” and “rue” as rhymes, and pronounce “rude” precisely like “rood,” can find them all by examining both ū and oo, ūd and ood, &c.—“Europe,” “ewe,” “union,” “nature,” “natural,” “educate,” “verdure,” “grandeur,” “seizure,” &c., are pronounced yūrŭp, yū, yūn’yŭn, nāt’yūr [colloquially nā’chūr or nā’chūr], nāt’yū-rāl [colloquially nāch’ū-rāl or nāch’ūr-ŭl], ěd’yū-kāt [colloquially ěj’ū-kāt or ěj’u-kāt], vŭrd’yūr [colloquially vŭr’jūr or vŭr’jūr; see ŭ], grānd’yūr [colloquially grān’jūr or grān’jūr], sēz’yūr [commonly sēzh’ūr or sēzh’ūr], &c. See d, t, z.

ŭ [including ô], as in but, arquebuse, son, does (verb), blood, double, generous, gallows(?); colloquially in verbal, Christian (see ä), bishop, pistol, atom (see ô), luncheon, porpoise, cupboard, and many other unaccented syllables.

û [including also ŭ before r, with ě and ĭ], as in cur, hurry, worm, buhrstone, connoisseur(?), adjourn, avoirdupois; colloquially in monarchy, vulgar (see ä), offer, elixir, error, zephyr; also in her, earth, guerdon(?), sir, myrrh, &c., which are marked with ē or i [ē=i], and made by some high authorities intermediate in sound between ě and û. Most orthoëpists, however, agree that the vowel sound in these last, if different at all, is closely allied with û; and many of the best speakers of English, like all uneducated people, make no distinction between them.

For gauge, dengue, see ā; for haunt, guard, see ä; for pause, aught, bought, see a; for bury, guerdon (?), guess, see ě; for guile, buy, see ī; for beautify (?), busy, build, plaguy, see ĭ; for liquor, antique, sacque, see k; for antiques, sacques, see ks under k; for aune, hautboy, beau, court, though, see ō; for hough, see ǒ; for buoy (?), Deutsch, see oi; for croup, manœuvre, see oo; for bound, miaul, sauer-kraut, "accompt," &c., see ou; for guano, cuirass, buoy (?), huisher, anguish, persuade, zouave (?), quest, acquit, see w.

v, as in rain, dove, of, Stephen. For twelvemonth (?), see l; for severn, see n.

w, as in wet, reward, war, gwiniad, guano, cuirass, buoy (?), huisher, anguish, persuade, zouave (?), quest, acquit, choir. wa, as in war, buoy (?). The French oi or oy, as in octroi, devoir, réservoir, voyageur, patois, sang-froid, feu-de-joie, bourgeois (?), bourgeoisie, is variously pronounced as wā, or wǒ, or wä, or wā, or even wă. "Buoy" is pronounced boi or bwoi or bwoi; "one" (with its derivatives) is pronounced wūn. For jaw, awe, see a; for who, when, see h; for sew, grow, owe, see ō; for knowledge, see ǒ; for vow, see ou; for wring, see r; for answer, see s; for two, see t; for meaw, new, view, herded, viewed, yew (?), ewe (?), see ū; for gallows (?), see ũ.

x is not used. For the equivalent of soft x or x, as in exist, see gz under g; for the common or sharp x, as in vex, see ks under k; for luxury, complexion, noxious, see ksh under k; for xylography, see z.

y [consonant], as in young, beyond, familiar, convenient, grandeur (see d, j, ū), hallelujah, surveillance(?). The French "sommeil" is pronounced sōm-māly' or sōm-māy' (y consonantal in each case; see ly and āy). For may, prey, played, preyed, see ā; for Ayr, prayer, eyre, see â; for key, quay, see ē; for says, see ě; for dry, rye, bayou, ley or lye, eye, buy, see ī; for busy, alley, nymph, plaguy, see ĭ; for boy, buoy(?), see oi; for zephyr, myrrh, see û. See also under d, ī, ĭ, t, ū, z.

z, as in zone, fizz, sacrifice, has, xylography, rendezvous(?), discern, scissors, raspberry(?). The z in "rendezvous" is silent; the s at the end is either silent or pronounced as z. The Italian z and zz = dz or ts, as in grazioso, mezzo(?). For chintz, see s.—zh, as in ambrosia or ambrosia, elysian or elysian, confusion, vision, osier, abscission, pleasure, grazier, transition, seizure (see ū); French Gironde, rouge, jalousie. See d, t, ū.

In an unaccented syllable, the vowel a, standing alone, or closing the syllable, has usually, when deliberately pronounced, the sound of ā, as in America, orator; sometimes it has the sound of ā, as in aerial: e (if pronounced; see below), i, and y, in like positions, have usually the sound of ĭ or of shortened ē, as in delay, supplement, epitome, divisibility, ably, varying; but e is commonly silent at the end of a word (sometimes of a syllable), when it follows either l or a vowel and consonant in the same syllable, as in able, battlement, lettuce, comrade, savage, trireme, engine, acre, appellate, receptive; and i is often long in initial syllables, as in idea, biography:

o, forming or closing an unaccented syllable, has usually the shortened sound of ō, as in notation, monopoly; u, in like circumstances, has usually its long sound, as in superfluous, unctuous, natural (see d, t, ū, above).

ORDER OF ARRANGEMENT, &c.

Part I consists of single or male rhymes, as bay, delay; part II, of double or female rhymes, as vary, canary; part III, of triple rhymes, as various, multifarious; part IV, of quadruple rhymes, as variously, multifariously; part V, of quintuple rhymes, as eligibleness, intelligibleness.

The words are arranged, in general, according to the sounds of the rhyming vowels and the letters or syllables following them (or preceding them, as the case may require), taken in their alphabetical order, as given in the foregoing Key; and the arrangement is easily traced by the rhyming vowel (a, e, i, o, u) and the following consonant or vowel (if any) placed at the beginning of each division and subdivision, and in the running title at the top of each page.

Each part is arranged according to the sounds of the rhyming vowels, first alone (if single), then with a letter or letters following in the order of the Key.

In each subdivision, the words of the fewest syllables are placed first in their relative order, according to the Key; then come those with one, two, or more syllables prefixed, each group being likewise regularly arranged in and by itself.

Such related words as "leopard" and "peppered," "equant" and "frequent," "able" and "label," "fencible" and "dispensable," "evil" and "primeval," are grouped together as allowable rhymes.
